PROF. SHIELDS IS OUT.

New Brunswick Presbytery Accepted His Withdrawal.

ROW OVER THE PRINCETON INN.

The Professor Left the Church Because Censured For Signing the Liquor License Application — A Resolution Adopted on Church's Policy.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12.—Prof. Charles W. Shields of Princeton university, who has been censured by members of the presbytery for signing the petition for a liquor license for Princeton Inn, has tendered his withdrawal from the Presbyterian church to the New Brunswick presbytery in order, as his letter said, that he might "enter some other portion of the visible church to which the good hand of God may guide him." It was accepted.

A resolution was presented by Rev. Dr. John De Witt, professor of church history in the theological seminary, that the resignation of Dr. Shields be accepted. There were immediate protests and requests that a resolution of regret accompany the withdrawal. The argument continued for some time and Rev. Dr. Rogan offered a sub-resolution that a committee of three clergymen and two laymen be appointed to confer with Dr. Shields.

It was finally decided to appoint a committee of five members to enquire into and report upon the case. The committee consisted of Dr. Duffield, Dr. Rogan and Dr. Studdiford, clergy, and Judge Lanning and Dr. Hamilton, elders.

The committee, after an hour's deliberation, reported that it had accepted Dr. Shields' resignation from the church, and instructed that his name be removed from the roll. It also reported the following resolution:

"Resolved, That, owing to previous misapprehension of the action of the presbytery, the presbytery deems it advisable to call the attention of our elders, ministers and members to the deliverances of the assemblies of 1871 and 1877 in regard to the signing of petitions for the sale of intoxicating liquors or beverages."

These reports were adopted.

DIVISION OF MISSION MONEY.

M. E. Committee Decided on 45 to Home and 55 Per Cent to Foreign.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—The general missionary committee of the extension of the Methodist Episcopal church resumed its session with Bishop Andrews of New York in the chair. When the public meeting was called to order by Bishop Andrews, Rev. J. P. Chaffee of Minneapolis urged the committee to appoint a committee to devise ways and means to decrease the debt. After some discussion Dr. Chaffee's suggestion was agreed to.

The question of the division of the appropriation to domestic and foreign missions respectively was discussed at some length. The total amount appropriated was $1,139,940 and $40,000 additional was appropriated for contingent expenses and $30,000 for incidental expenses. It was decided to make the division of the missionary fund on the basis of 45 per cent to home missions and 55 per cent to foreign missions.

A BAND OF BRUTES.

Two Sisters Are Whipped by Whitecaps Near Holgate.

GIVEN COAT OF TAR AND FEATHERS

Youngest of the Girls In a Critical Condition—Her Flesh Cut to the Bone. Bloodhounds Unable to Track the Fiends—The People Excited.

HOLGATE, Nov. 12.—Word has reached this city from Oakwood, a hamlet 15 miles south, of an outrage perpetrated by whitecaps upon two girls, Edith and May Roberts, aged 19 and 17 years. Ten days ago the young ladies received a whitecap notice, warning them to leave the town and county, but they had paid no attention to the notice.

They retired early the night of the outrage, and later, were awakened by a band of eight or ten men entering their room and dragging them from their beds in their nightrobes to the nearby road, where they were terribly whipped by a cat-o'-nine-tails, which was found in the road. After beating the two girls the white caps gave them a coat of tar and feathers and took them back to the house, where they were found unconscious by people passing by.

May, the youngest of the two girls, is in a critical condition, her flesh being cut to the bone by the whip.

A card containing ten names was found tacked to the front door, but none of the names are known about that place.

Bloodhounds were placed upon the trail of the whitecaps, but owing to heavy rains and the trampling of hundreds of people about the scene, the animals were unable to follow the scent and no other clue can be found.

A Vessel Broken In Two.

ASHTABULA, Nov. 12.—While leaving port in the heavy northwest gale the steel steamer Roman of the Hanna fleet was caught in a heavy sea and dashed against the bottom of the lake, literally breaking the strong ship in two. It was only by a miracle that tugs were able to get the Roman back into the harbor before she foundered. No difficulty was experienced in raising the crew.

Wages Advanced 10 Per Cent.

BELLAIRE, Nov. 12.—The Wheeling Iron and Steel company at Benwood, opposite this city, have agreed upon an advance of 10 per cent in wages to their employees. The advance goes into effect Nov. 15. Nearly 2,000 men will be benefited.

K. of L. Still Wrangling.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 12.—The general assembly, Knights of Labor, is still wrangling over contested delegations.

BLANCO ISSUES NEW ORDERS.

He Is Doing Much to Restore Agriculture In Cuba.

HAVANA, Nov. 12.—Captain General Blanco has issued a circular announcing that he has decided to furnish all the protection necessary to bring about a resumption of general planting, harvesting and reconstruction throughout the country, especially in the case of the sugar crop. He further decrees that the authorities of the island are to lend unconditional support to the proprietors of farms in the efforts of the latter to gather their crops and tend their cattle.

The civil authorities are instructed to encourage to the utmost those who wish to grind sugar cane, and to offer them assurances and the necessary military force to protect themselves and their property. The regions where agriculture is more extended will be especially provided for. The authorities are authorized to assist even those who are behind in their taxes, and to do their utmost to increase the commercial facilities of the planters.

All war measures are abrogated in regard to agricultural implements, machinery, etc., and the right of the railroads to charge 20 per cent on all freight carried is also done away with.

Marshal Blanco has abrogated the orders of his predecessor as to the destruction of the fields and huts of the insurgents. He has also canceled the prohibitions by which the Spanish soldiery have been prevented from camping in the towns. The new orders direct that the soldiers shall be provided with blankets and waterproof coats, and that when in camp they shall always be sheltered as far as possible from the rains and dew.

No fewer than 32,000 sick soldiers are now in the hospitals of the island.

CHANCE FOR GOLDSEEKERS.

The Cramps' New Steamers Will Carry Passengers Around the Horn.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The States Steamship company has been formed under the laws of New Jersey with a capital of $7,000,000 and with Charles H. Cramp, president of the Cramp Shipbuilding company, as its president. The new company acquires from the International Navigation company the five steamers, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois and Conemaugh, and others will be added to the fleet.

President Cramp said that these steamers will be sent around to the west coast as soon as possible, and will probably run regularly from San Francisco or Seattle to St. Michaels. The fleet will be fitted out under hurry orders, and, with passengers and freight, be dispatched to the Klondike goldfields, sending the passengers up the river to Dawson City by the first boats that can make the trip.

The Ohio will be the first steamer to sail, and will leave early in December, to be followed by the four others, all leaving by March 1. Passengers and freight will be taken from Philadelphia.

A THORN JUROR ILL.

The Trial of the Murderer Comes to a Sudden Halt.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The trial of Martin Thorn has come to a sudden halt, owing to the illness of Juror Mangus Larson. He was taken sick and his case was diagnosed as a slight stomach trouble. It has since developed, however, that he is suffering from appendicitis and is in so serious a condition that his doctors will not permit him to leave his bed.

Thorn was brought into court, looking none the worse for his terrible ordeal, when Mrs. Augusta Nack detailed the story of the murder and mutilation of Guldensuppe and threw the burden of the deed upon him.

When Judge Smith opened court, District Attorney Youngs reported the condition of Juror Larson, and the judge, with the consent of counsel on both sides, adjourned court until today. This unexpected development may put an end to the trial and necessitate a new one.

Lawyer Howe says Thorn will testify that it was Mrs. Nack planned the murder of Guldensuppe and also fired the shot.

DURRANT AGAIN SAVED.

California Supreme Court Stops the Execution Until Further Orders.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 12.—The state supreme court has granted a writ of probable cause and Warden Hale has been instructed not to hang Durrant until further orders from the supreme court. All the judges concurred.

High Wind Caused the Wreck.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 12.—A passenger train on the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis road has been derailed and entirely consumed by fire near Lewisport, Ky. No lives were lost and no one seriously injured. A high wind blew a boxcar from a switch across the track, wrecking the train.

The Weather.

Clearing; fair; colder; northwesterly winds, high on the lakes, diminishing in force.

Butterworth Expected to Recover.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12.—Hon. Benjamin Butterworth is much better. The doctors say he will recover.

SHERMAN AND LAURIER

The Two Confer In the Interest of Peace.

WANT TO SETTLE DIFFERENCES.

Both Leading Exponents of Closer Relations Between the United States and Canada—No Objection From Chamberlain—Session of the Seal Conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Secretary Sherman and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the premier of Canada, have begun the first of a formal series of conferences for the purpose of bringing about an agreement by which as many as possible of the questions now causing friction between the United States and Dominion of Canada may be amicably adjusted by treaty or otherwise. These conferences will be independent of the Bering sea seal fisheries conference, which was the immediate occasion for the Canadian premier's present visit to Washington.

Among the causes of friction between the two countries is the question of the rights of citizens of either to pursue business callings in the territory of the other and the tariff question. The conference was brought about by a note which Secretary Sherman sent to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, asking him if it would be convenient to the latter to meet the secretary, the Canadian premier responding in the affirmative.

Mr. Sherman and Sir Wilfrid were together for two hours. It can be stated on authority that the discussion was devoted to the consideration of the many important questions affecting the general relations between the United States and Canada. In such a discussion the secretary of state and the Canadian premier found themselves in much accord. Mr. Sherman has long favored the most cordial relations between the United States and Canada, having been, while in the senate, author of several resolutions in that direction. Sir Wilfrid has been the conspicuous exponent of the same view in Canada.

It was realized on both hands, however, that the discussion was not one which could bring immediate results, as many of the border controversies are of long standing and many practical difficulties were in the way of settlement. The purpose, however, was to approach the general subject in a spirit of friendliness and develop means for dealing with the numerous questions relating to both countries, namely: Border immigration, reciprocity, fishery rights, the railway bonding privilege, etc.

In view of cable reports from London, stating that Mr. Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies in the Salisbury cabinet, had expressed to Lord Aberdeen, governor general of Canada, strong disapproval of any move by Sir Wilfrid Laurier looking to placing the United States on the same basis as Great Britain in tariff affairs.

An authoritative statement was made that no such disapproval had been expressed by the imperial authorities, and that Lord Aberdeen had received no such notification from Mr. Chamberlain or other source, as his lordship was with the members of the Laurier party up to the time they left Ottawa and no mention was made of any such disapproval from imperial quarters.

At the Bering sea conference the report of Prof. Lucas upon the habits of the seals was read, as were also the reports of Messrs. Jordan, Thompson and Macoun. The reports of Prof. Jordan and Thompson had not been exchanged heretofore. The papers led to considerable discussion which was, generally speaking, of an amicable character, although some marked differences of opinion were expressed. They showed great falling off in the seal life.

FRAUDULENT CREEK ORDERS.

Conspirators Will Be Punished—Government Will Lose Nothing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Mr. J. W. Zeneley of the interior department, who was selected by Secretary Bliss to make an investigation of the reported issue of fraudulent warrants by the government of the Creek Indian nation, has returned to Washington.

The investigation established the fact that Isparhecher, the principal chief, has no knowledge whatever of the English language and that all the warrants purporting to have been issued and signed by him were in fact issued and signed by an under secretary in his office. A number of persons had combined together to defraud the Creek government out of a large sum of money.

The warrants now known to be fraudulently issued amount to $93,704.93. Mr. Zeneley says their fraudulent character is established by indisputable testimony. Arrests will follow. The government will lose nothing.

GERMANY MAKING HASTE.

That Government Hurrying to Send a Warship to Scare Haiti.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—The German warship Gefion is under orders to sail from Port Au Prince, this month, in order to insist upon redress for the arrest there of Herr Lueders, a German subject, and his unlawful imprisonment, for which Count Schwerin, the German minister at Port Au Prince has demanded an indemnity.

Lueders is now believed to be in Germany, having been released from prison in order to avoid further complications, the natives of Port Au Prince having threatened to mob the German legation and lynch Lueders. The fitting out of the warship is being hastened as much as possible.

Presbyterian Home Missions.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 12.—The Presbyterian committee on missions has left the mission matter to a sub-committee to report today, after adopting resolutions favoring independence of synods in home mission matters, though contributing certain amounts to the national board.

Unknown Frenchman Suicided.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—A man, apparently a Frenchman of position and refinement, whose identity has not been clearly established, has committed suicide at Green's hotel.

K. of L. Still Wrangling.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 12.—The general assembly, Knights of Labor, is still wrangling over contested delegations.

BLANCO ISSUES NEW ORDERS.

He is Doing Much to Restore Agriculture in Cuba.

HAVANA, Nov. 12.—Captain General Blanco has issued a circular announcing that he has decided to furnish all the protection necessary to bring about a resumption of general planting, harvesting and reconstruction throughout the country, especially in the case of the sugar crop. He further decrees that the authorities of the island are to lend unconditional support to the proprietors of farms in the efforts of the latter to gather their crops and tend their cattle.

The civil authorities are instructed to encourage to the utmost those who wish to grind sugar cane, and to offer them assurances and the necessary military force to protect themselves and their property. The regions where agriculture is more extended will be especially provided for. The authorities are authorized, to assist even those who are behind in their taxes, and to do their utmost to increase the commercial facilities of the planters.

All war measures are abrogated in regard to agricultural implements, machinery, etc., and the right of the railroads to charge 20 per cent on all freight carried is also done away with.

Marshal Blanco has abrogated the orders of his predecessor as to the destruction of the fields and huts of the insurgents. He has also canceled the prohibitions by which the Spanish soldiery have been prevented from camping in the towns. The new orders direct that the soldiers shall be provided with blankets and waterproof coats, and that when in camp they shall always be sheltered as far as possible from the rains and dew.

No fewer than 32,000 sick soldiers are now in the hospitals of the island.

CHANCE FOR GOLDSEEKERS.

The Cramps' New Steamers Will Carry Passengers Around the Horn.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The States Steamship company has been formed under the laws of New Jersey with a capital of $7,000,000 and with Charles H. Cramp, president of the Cramp Shipbuilding company, as its president. The new company acquires from the International Navigation company the five steamers, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois and Conemaugh, and others will be added to the fleet.

President Cramp said that these steamers will be sent around to the west coast as soon as possible, and will probably run regularly from San Francisco or Seattle to St. Michaels. The fleet will be fitted out under hurry orders, and, with passengers and freight, be dispatched to the Klondike goldfields, sending the passengers up the river to Dawson City by the first boats that can make the trip.

The Ohio will be the first steamer to sail, and will leave early in December, to be followed by the four others, all leaving by March 1. Passengers and freight will be taken from Philadelphia.

A THORN JUROR ILL.

The Trial of the Murderer Comes to a Sudden Halt.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The trial of Martin Thorn has come to a sudden halt, owing to the illness of Juror Mangus Larson. He was taken sick and his case was diagnosed as a slight stomach trouble. It has since developed, however, that he is suffering from appendicitis and is in so serious a condition that his doctors will not permit him to leave his bed.

Thorn was brought into court, looking none the worse for his terrible ordeal, when Mrs. Augusta Nack detailed the story of the murder and mutilation of Guldensuppe and threw the burden of the deed upon him.

When Judge Smith opened court, District Attorney Youngs reported the condition of Juror Larson, and the judge, with the consent of counsel on both sides, adjourned court until today. This unexpected development may put an end to the trial and necessitate a new one.

Lawyer Howe says Thorn will testify that it was Mrs. Nack planned the murder of Guldensuppe and also fired the shot.

DURRANT AGAIN SAVED.

California Supreme Court Stops the Execution Until Further Orders.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 12.—The state supreme court has granted a writ of probable cause and Warden Hale has been instructed not to hang Durrant until further orders from the supreme court. All the judges concurred.

High Wind Caused the Wreck.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 12.—A passenger train on the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis road has been derailed and entirely consumed by fire near Lewisport, Ky. No lives were lost and no one seriously injured. A high wind blew a boxcar from a switch across the track, wrecking the train.

The Weather.

Clearing; fair; colder; northwesterly winds, high on the lakes, diminishing in force.

Butterworth Expected to Recover.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12.—Hon. Benjamin Butterworth is much better. The doctors say he will recover.

SHERMAN AND LAURIER

The Two Confer in the Interest of Peace.

WANT TO SETTLE DIFFERENCES.

Both Leading Exponents of Closer Relations Between the United States and Canada—No Objection From Chamberlain—Session of the Seal Conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Secretary Sherman and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the premier of Canada, have begun the first of a formal series of conferences for the purpose of bringing about an agreement by which as many as possible of the questions now causing friction between the United States and Dominion of Canada may be amicably adjusted by treaty or otherwise. These conferences will be independent of the Bering sea seal fisheries conference, which was the immediate occasion for the Canadian premier's present visit to Washington.

Among the causes of friction between the two countries is the question of the rights of citizens of either to pursue business callings in the territory of the other and the tariff question. The conference was brought about by a note which Secretary Sherman sent to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, asking him if it would be convenient to the latter to meet the secretary, the Canadian premier responding in the affirmative.

Mr. Sherman and Sir Wilfrid were together for two hours. It can be stated on authority that the discussion was devoted to the consideration of the many important questions affecting the general relations between the United States and Canada. In such a discussion the secretary of state and the Canadian premier found themselves in much accord. Mr. Sherman has long favored the most cordial relations between the United States and Canada, having been, while in the senate, author of several resolutions in that direction. Sir Wilfrid has been the conspicuous exponent of the same view in Canada.

It was realized on both hands, however, that the discussion was not one which could bring immediate results, as many of the border controversies are of long standing and many practical difficulties were in the way of settlement. The purpose, however, was to approach the general subject in a spirit of friendliness and develop means for dealing with the numerous questions relating to both countries, namely: Border immigration, reciprocity, fishery rights, the railway bonding privilege, etc.

In view of cable reports from London, stating that Mr. Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies in the Salisbury cabinet, had expressed to Lord Aberdeen, governor general of Canada, strong disapproval of any move by Sir Wilfrid Laurier looking to placing the United States on the same basis as Great Britain in tariff affairs.

An authoritative statement was made that no such disapproval had been expressed by the imperial authorities, and that Lord Aberdeen had received no such notification from Mr. Chamberlain or other source, as his lordship was with the members of the Laurier party up to the time they left Ottawa and no mention was made of any such disapproval from imperial quarters.

At the Bering sea conference the report of Prof. Lucas upon the habits of the seals was read, as were also the reports of Messrs. Jordan, Thompson and Macoun. The reports of Prof. Jordan and Thompson had not been exchanged heretofore. The papers led to considerable discussion which was, generally speaking, of an amicable character, although some marked differences of opinion were expressed. They showed great falling off in the seal life.

FRAUDULENT CREEK ORDERS.

Conspirators Will Be Punished—Government Will Lose Nothing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Mr. J. W. Zeneley of the interior department, who was selected by Secretary Bliss to make an investigation of the reported issue of fraudulent warrants by the government of the Creek Indian nation, has returned to Washington.

The investigation established the fact that Isarhecher, the principal chief, has no knowledge whatever of the English language and that all the warrants purporting to have been issued and signed by him were in fact issued and signed by an under secretary in his office. A number of persons had combined together to defraud the Creek government out of a large sum of money.

The warrants now known to be fraudulently issued amount to $93,704.93. Mr. Zeneley says their fraudulent character is established by indisputable testimony. Arrests will follow. The government will lose nothing.

Yellow Fever Record.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12.—New yellow fever cases, 12; deaths, 6.

JACKSON, Miss.—One case at Edwards.

MOBILE.—One new case.

Bank President Sentenced.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12.—President J. C. Darragh, charged with wrecking the Kansas City Safe Deposit and Savings bank, has been sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary.

HASTINGS TO THE GRANGERS.

Slaps at Capitol Commission and Last Legislature.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 12.—The national grange at its session heard reports of state masters, all of them encouraging. Virginia was ruled out as not entitled to representation, not having a sufficient number of subordinate granges.

The state grange considered the question of electing officers, but Worthy Master Rhone ruled that inasmuch as this is a special session, officers cannot be elected, and the old officers will hold over.

A long report was made by the committee on legislation. Some amendments to the pure food law will be suggested, one to include food for animals in the provisions of the law. Some routine reports were made.

A public reception was held at the Opera house in honor of the visiting grangers.

Governor Hastings delivered an address of welcome. In the course of his remarks the governor said:

"Public taxation is a necessary incident to all governments, and the farmer will uncomplainingly contribute his share, where the burden rests fairly and equitably upon all. But his duty does not end with the payment of the tax, he is equally responsible for its expenditure.

"If you do not want your share of the public burden of taxation to be frittered away in useless expenditures, exorbitant appropriation or aimless pretense of investigation committees, whose purpose is to obscure or conceal the truth, it is your fault if you do not stop it. If your capitol building should be destroyed by fire and could be rebuilt with the expenditure of $500,000 you should not be taxed millions on millions to aid to a subterfuge or a delusion, which might only enrich some favorite architect or building contractor, and compel you to give your share of wheat and corn, your oats and potatoes to those who have no call upon your bounty, your sympathy or your patriotism.

"You had better rise in your might and drive from place and power those who represent you and your interests."

WANT A PRINCE COURT MARTIALED.

Excitement in Athens Over Torpedo Scandal Continues.

BRINDISI, Italy, Nov. 12.—Letters received here from Athens says that the torpedo scandal continues to be the sensation of the Cretan capital. The basis of this scandal was the discovery of the fact that all the cartridges fitted to the torpedoes during the war with Turkey were not provided with percussion caps and fulminating mercury, and that therefore they would have been useless in case they were needed.

The investigating committee decided that two officers, Captains Rastopoulo and Anantasi, must be tried by court-martial on the charge of culpable negligence. Captain Rastopoulo, who is now being tried, has asked that Prince George of Greece, who commanded the torpedo flotilla during the war and who previous to the war was a great favorite with the masses, be called as a witness.

The court refused to do this and the Greek newspapers are publishing vigorous articles, the anti-dynastic Hestia demanding that Prince George be tried by court-martial. The prince is known to be deeply affected.

LINCOLN SUCCEEDS PULLMAN.

Action Taken Practically Making Him President of Pullman Company.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—At a meeting of the directors of the Pullman Palace Car company, Robert T. Lincoln was elected a director. An executive committee was appointed consisting of H. E. Hulbert of New York and Marshal Field and Robert T. Lincoln of Chicago, which will have charge of the general affairs of the company.

Robert T. Lincoln was elected chairman of this committee. The election of a president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George M. Pullman was postponed, but the action taken practically makes Lincoln the president.

BRITONS DIED BRAVELY.

A Lieutenant and Twelve Men Killed by Indian Tribesmen.

SIMLA, Nov. 12.—When the British reconnoitering force returned to the camp in the Maidan valley after a disastrous return from the summit of the Saran-Sar mountain. Lieutenant McIntyre and 12 men were reported missing, but it was hoped they would succeed in reaching camp.

Their bodies have been found now and it is said to be evident from the position in which the corpses rested that the little detachment fell gallantly fighting to the last.

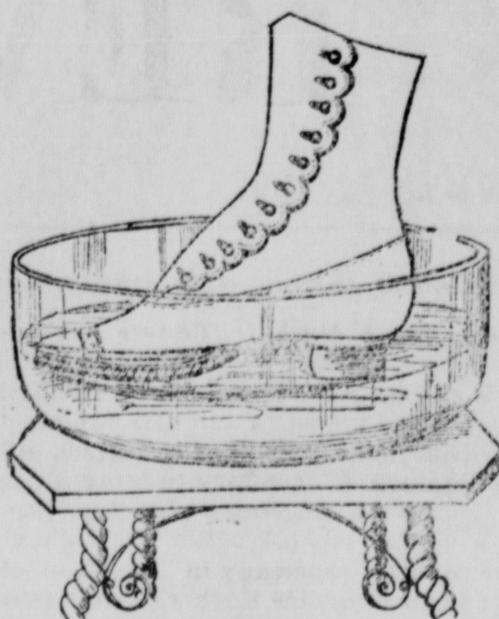

A PROTEST FROM GERMANY.

United States Chief Justice Accused of Enlarging District in Samoa.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Berlin correspondent of The Standard says: "The German government has protested against the enlargement of the Apia district in the Samoan group by the American chief justice, because its revenue is obtained from German firms. Germany is determined to protest emphatically against any illegal interference in the administration of the Samoan islands, and will certainly never recognize annexation by the United States.

RING A CURFEW BELL

If It Will Help In Enforcing the Law.

LET ALL THE CHURCHES JOIN

A Prominent Citizen Suggests That the Aid of Every Christian Organization In the City Be Called In to Show the Police Where They Are Derelict In Their Duty.

It was predicted when the curfew bill was passed by council that it would perhaps be enforced for a month, and would then become a dead letter. The people who made that prediction clearly knew what they were talking about, for the ordinance has never been enforced. For a time no one noticed it, but the following communication from a prominent citizen shows that he, at least, has been thinking of the matter:

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW:—If the curfew ordinance can only be enforced through the ringing of a bell, I would advise council to order some one to sound the bell on city hall at the appointed time every night. If that will not suffice to convince the police of the necessity of observing the law, let every Christian organization in the city take the question home and ring every church bell in town at that time. If that clanging does not serve to show the authorities their duty, keep it up until they realize that East Liverpool has reached that point where it objects.

"Every one knows the law is not enforced. Not a night goes by without children being seen on the streets when the law says they shall be at home, and the will of every well regulated family should have them tucked snugly in bed. Bad boys become bad men, and there is no better way to make boys bad than to allow them to run the streets at night, loafing about questionable resorts and forming the acquaintance of questionable people. They do during the night what they would not do during the day. Acting on that knowledge council passed the ordinance. Now, isn't it right that every parent in the city should demand the enforcement of the law?"

WELLSVILLE.

THE PEOPLE COMPLAIN

Because There Are Few Cars
In the Morning.

IT IS DANGEROUS TO RIDE

They Think, and There Is Talk of Taking the Matter to Manager Hoefgen—New Life In the Fire Department—Want the Town Cleaned—A Shoplifting Story.

The many people who go from Wells-ville to East Liverpool every morning are hoping that Manager Hoefgen will leave his warm couch some morning in time to experience some of the discomforts which they endure every day.
Then they think he will order a change.
The first three cars which leave Wellsville are always crowded. They are intended to carry perhaps 30 persons, but as a rule they have about double that number. Passengers are squeezed into the smallest possible space and a number are always compelled to stand.
They think this overloading of cars is dangerous, and are very anxious to have some arrangement made whereby the practice will end.

It is suggested that instead of three cars the company have double that number with which to start business every day. The business certainly warrants it, and discomfort and danger would be materially decreased. It is probable that a well signed petition will soon be sent to Manager Hoefgen.

Returned the Goods.

A lady entered a leading business house the other day, and made a few small purchases. After she had gone, a clerk discovered that some valuable merchandise had been stolen, and at once reported the loss to the proprietor.
He went to the door and saw the individual he sought standing by the street railway waiting for a car. He asked her to return to the store, and she did, but her face was very pale. She was accused of the theft, and with tears and sobs pleaded to be allowed to pay for the article. The merchant, after giving her a good lecture and a scare, accepted her offer, and she was allowed to go.

The statement is made that she is a resident of East Liverpool.

More Blood.

Chief Lowins, of the fire department, has determined to make some needed changes, and hopes thereby to transform it into one of the best in the state.

A well attended meeting was held the other evening, and the fact brought out that the boys are as anxious as the chief for improvement. A number of changes were suggested, and it is probable they will be carried out in the very near future. Just what they are the public is not to know at present, but before summer comes again it is probable that sufficient energy will have been injected into the Wellsville fire department to make it the pet of the town.

Dangerous Pools.

The rain did a very great deal to clean the streets, but there are a great many people who complain, and not without cause.

The rain washed the streets, but the filth and dirt simply flowed into the dangerous pools which are found in all parts of town. People who live in the vicinity of these dangerous places are talking a great deal and and it is probable the matter will again be presented to council and the board of health.

His Last Sermon.

The Christian church will be filled to overflowing next Sunday where Reverend Bowers delivers his farewell sermon. It is understood that the congregation have no minister, to fill the vacancy, in view.

The supper given by the ladies of the Christian church last evening attracted a large crowd, and netted them a snug sum.

Missed the Man.

Officers were here from Martin's Ferry looking for a crook who is badly wanted in that place. They first went to East Liverpool, and not finding him there came to Wellsville. It seems that the man had been arrested here for drunk-ness and released because the authorities did not know him.

Declared Himself.

Last evening a large crowd collected in Sixth street to hear an excited man declare himself over some wrong he imagined had been perpetrated upon him.
Friends finally persuaded him to retire and the crowd dispersed.

THEY ARE COMING OUR WAY. CUSTOMERS ARE CROWDING OUR STORE.

It's been a regular Saturday Night's business with us the last three days.

Those misses' and children's BOX CALF school shoes are the talk of the town. The stock is plump, soft and glossy, will turn water, are made stylish, and will wear until you get tired of them. Our boys' and youths' shoes cannot be equaled anywhere for the money. This is proven by the wagon loads we are selling. Our boys' shoes, called the WEAR RESISTERS, are made up to our own ideas, and warranted, every pair.

MEN! MEN!

Are you in need of a pair of shoes that will turn water? We've got them.

Do you need a dress shoe? We've got them for $1.50 that will wear well and look as neat as any $2 or $3 shoes.

Do you want a pair of shoes that are right up to date, in the new vici kid, kangaroo, calf or cordovan stock, with calf linings, double or single soles, all style toes? We've got them.

We've got them cheaper than anywhere else, quality considered. We want to prove this to you.

LITTLE more than a week has passed since election day, yet there are thousands of people in Ohio who have almost forgotten the name of Chapman. Such is fame.

A MAN named Bryan is to be made minister to China, but unfortunately it is not the gentleman with the large voice and sorrowful countenance. He will still be with us.

THE official count shows that Governor Bushnell's plurality was 28,215 from a total vote of 852,210. That is not so bad when we remember that it was a Democratic year and there were eight candidates.

GENERAL BLANCO seems to know more about issuing edicts than he does of conducting a campaign. Unless all evidences are wrong Spain has not helped its cause in Cuba by importing the gentleman with the high collar.

THE chances for financial legislation during the next session of congress are not the brightest in the world, and no one seems to be very much disturbed either. The country appears to be very well satisfied with what it has.

WITH prosperity Kansas is regaining its good sense. Ten Republican circuit judges were last election elected in that state of hobbies and crankiness, which goes to show the people do not have as many hobbies and are not as cranky as during the years of populism's popularity.

MAHONING'S COMPLAINT.

The Youngstown Telegram complains. It says it is not jealous, nor does it desire to appear in that light, but it would like to have President McKinley glance over his appointment book, and, just for his own satisfaction, observe the number of large, juicy political plums that have come to the metropolis of his own congressional district. There are none. Stark has had many, Columbiana a few, but Mahoning seems to have been forgotten in the mad rush for office. Now, whether this can be laid to the limited number of hustlers in Mahoning or ascribed to the fact that sons of Stark have been so often after office as to know all the turns and twists of the business, cannot now be told, but whatever may be the cause the Telegram should not complain.

Look at Liverpool. Where on the face of this wide, wide world can be found more friends, firmer friends and better political and personal friends for President McKinley? Nowhere. That spot has not been created. Yet what does Liverpool get in the way of offices? Let all the lucky ones stand up and be counted. It would not take long to write the number, but Liverpool does not complain.

It did not support William McKinley for the purpose of obtaining political appointments. It supported him because he represented a principle which, if transformed into law, would make its name famous and its people happy. The same principle has been applied to Youngstown with the same result. Why should it think now of political preferment? Leave that to the villages where men are never busy taking advantage of improved conditions under the new tariff and at spare moments blessing the day when Republican principle gained control of the government. That is what we are doing in Liverpool, and there are men here who believe they are making enough money and gaining enough honor without thinking of office.

A Successful Hunt.

Charles Dix and John Stoffel while hunting in the woods near Smith's Ferry yesterday captured 10 rabbits and a number of birds.

These suits are double stitched throughout with fine dye silk, piped seams, deep facings in coat. The body lining harmonizes with the fabric and is of excellent quality. The material of the suit is all wool. The patterns are of the newest style to select from.

Stylish Gentlemen FOR OVERCOATS

Are finding it profitable to buy their Overcoats ready made more and more every year, because ready made Overcoats are not what they use to be. Now it gets just as much care and attention as custom made Overcoats. The best cloth is used, the best cutters are employed, and the best tailors put them together. The body linings are of clay worsted, some are lined with either Skinner's or Goetz satin lining, guaranteed to wear for two years. Others deep facing on coats same material as on the outside of coat.

To pay double the price to say mine is tailor made, is throwing money away. Well dressed men concede these facts. The difference is PRICE, that's all.

ALL KINDS OF SHOES FOR ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE

Fashionable, Comfortable, Neat and Durable.

We still argue that good shoes win in the long run. We have advocated this from the start and are more thoroughly convinced of it every day. Then another feature is the fact that you can buy good, reliable goods at the prices of ordinary ones. It's no trick to buy cheap. Any one can do that, but to buy GOOD and CHEAP is the point.

We claim to sell good shoes cheap, and we do it. We are firm believers in quality and will always handle it.

It will pay you to see our goods, and you'll appreciate the quality and low prices.

EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

THIRTEENTH YEAR. NO. 134.

EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1897.

TWO CENTS

BLIND GIRL WONDER.

HELEN KELLER'S FIRST YEAR OF COLLEGE PREPARATORY WORK.

She Surprised Her Teachers—The Methods of Instruction Used—Evidence of Great Intellectual Power—Harvard Examinations at Which She Won Honors.

An account of the first year's college preparatory work done by Miss Helen Adams Keller, as "Little Helen Keller," the blind and deaf girl, is now called, was recently given out by Arthur Gilman, M. A., director of the Cambridge School for Girls, where Helen has lived for the past year.

Helen entered in September, 1896, accompanied by her teacher, Miss Anne Sullivan, the plan being to have them both in every class, Miss Sullivan being the interpreter of the instruction given by the teachers. For the first time in her life Helen lived in the constant society of seeing and hearing persons and was taught with normal pupils by instructors inexperienced in teaching the deaf or the blind. Her companionship at all times was supplied by normal persons. Mr. Gilman himself had had no experience with any but seeing and hearing pupils, and at first could converse with Helen only by allowing her to talk with her mouth and take his words from his lips with her fingers.

Though Helen had not been instructed in a course preparatory to college, she had been taught much English and had had little instruction in that direction beyond the critical study of books especially assigned by the colleges for that purpose for 1897. She had also made good progress in French and had to me that Helen felt this. I read the entire paper through at first, then sentence by sentence. Helen repeated the words with her voice as my hands made the signs.

"The paper was not an easy one. It was evident that Helen felt that. Her brow was knit, her fingers seemed to want to clutch an idea; perspiration came, but with regularity the typewriter spelled out the English of the German text. Helen forged ahead, and I anxiously kept her supplied with new sentences to translate. By 10:41 she had put all of the German from the German books that she had read into English. Then she took up the English to be translated into German. At 11:05 this, too, had been done. Next there was a passage from a book that Helen had never seen. This was completed at 11:44. I then read to Helen what she had written, and she dictated such changes as she thought necessary. These I interlined. It then went to the examiners with a certificate that it was the sole and unaided work of candidate No. 233.

"At 9 on Thursday the examination in Latin began. I read the paper as I had that in German. It was not easy, but it was plain that it did not present the difficulties that the German paper had and Helen was very cool. She was confident. The work went steadily forward and was duly completed and sent to the college as before. On July 2, a little before noon, we began the one hour paper on the history of Greece and Rome, and it was followed after a slight intermission by the two hour paper in English. These were uneventful. They were play for Helen, though naturally there were matters in the history paper that she had never heard of. We had spent weeks in the critical study of Burke's speech, but not a question was asked on it. We had thought that De Foe's 'Journal of the Plague' was too horrible to trouble Helen with, and but a few pages had been read to her. She found some questions on it, however, and was able to write satisfactorily on the subject.

"On Saturday there was one hour for elementary French and one for elementary German. Both of these were easy. While we were going through this there was a ring at the door and Professor Schilling was announced. He had come to let me know that Helen had been successful in her advanced German, the paper being pronounced excellent."

Helen was successful in every subject and took honors in English and German. No candidate in Harvard or Radcliffe college was graded higher than Helen in English. Mr. Gilman concludes his report with the statement: "No man or woman has ever in my experience got ready for these examinations in so brief a time. How has it been accomplished? By a union of patience, determination and affection with the foundation of an uncommon brain."

Luetgert's Dog Guards.

The home of the sausage maker Adolph L. Luetgert in Chicago is guarded by two fierce hounds, Major and Tige. Since the incarceration of Luetgert Major has mounted guard on the front porch. There he sits and waits for the return of his master. He will sit for hours or lie crouched on the upper step, with his nose pointed in the direction from which Luetgert usually returned from an excursion into the city. Unless called away or to get food or disturbed by some one approaching the house Major never leaves his post in the daytime. At night he patrols house, factory and garden as faithfully as any sentry ever placed to guard sleeping army in the enemy's front. Sometimes he is joined by Tige. Both the dogs, though fierce to strangers, are devoted to Luetgert and his children. The latter play with them and teach them all manner of tricks.—New York Journal.

LIVED TO HELP MEN.

JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG'S TRIBUTE TO HENRY GEORGE.

His Books Were His Bible, and He Believed In His Doctrines With Sublime Faith—Stories of His Life as the World Knew It Not.

I was a very young man when I first met Henry George. He had come to New York from California upon some newspaper. The friendship then formed grew into intimacy and affection, retaining to the end.

When I first knew Henry George, he was a young journalist who had made a modest mark in his calling in San Francisco. He had been before the mast and used to speak of cruises to India. He never until in later years threw off the sea manner, the breeziness and good fellowship which recall the comradeship of the waves. He was open handed, unconventional, friendly, loving.

Henry George in those days did not display the brilliancy and waywardness which marked the subaltern newspaper life. He could swim along if the tide ran toward merriment, but as a listener rather than a partaker. He was a serious man, given to solid talk, wanted to know a thing exactly, exemplary in all that goes toward the building of a perfect manhood.

I do not remember that in these early days George showed proneness toward new themes like single tax and other matters. I used to hear from him through California friends.

"George was a good fellow, but rather odd, you know. Harry George? Oh, yes, we all know Harry. Sets type, has a small paper, but an odd chap. Has queer ideas about some things, and unless you watch him will run his ideas into the paper. Can't make him understand that a good prizefight is worth all the political economies that ever lined trunks. Good man, but doesn't know the fundamental ideas of journalism."

It was to be seen by these friendly stories that George was not in sympathy with El Dorado; was, perhaps, the round peg in the square hole. I was not to meet him until arriving in San Francisco with General Grant, then ending his tour of the world. He had not changed, but he spoke as a stranger with his abiding place in a strange land. He had not succeeded in his paper, was not in the best of fortune and had written a book which he thought would establish his fame.

I saw much of George in these California days. He talked of his career; was swimming in heavy seas. This could only be divined bit by bit, for the proud, self respecting, sensitive gentleman made no sign. Then came the knowledge of the book, the new gospel. I never see "Progress and Poverty" without recalling the pathetic circumstances under which it was written and honoring the courage of the author.

George was the friendliest of men; would go about with you and show you what was to be seen; take the greatest pains to do you a service. He did not apparently care for notabilities, for fashion, show and authority; had a group of odd people as associates whom nobody else seemed to know. He had become a pronounced Democrat, his political evolution from the Greeley movement.

"Having run away from the Republican party you are ashamed to return. Why not seek absolution and come back?" I asked. "No, no. I have made the plunge. I cannot climb Niagara after jumping over it."

The clouds were heavy over George. Proud, brave, smiling, hopeful, San Francisco did not appreciate him—he never given him recognition. He would speak of it as cold and barren, ruled by strenuous men too busy with mines and wheat and empire building to listen to prophecy. George never for a moment—never when under the grinding heel of bitter conditions—doubted the truth of his mission to mankind and its ultimate success, but this obviously was not to be attained in El Dorado. Acting largely, I fancy, upon my advice, he resolved to try conclusions with fate and seek a career in the east.

And he came. Too proud to ask or accept a favor, he crossed the continent in an emigrant train. Alone and almost friendless, he searched the metropolis in 1880, as I remember, taking dingy lodgings—a stranger to a city in which he was in a few years to receive 68,000 votes for mayor.

These early New York days were of extreme and honorable poverty. I saw him a great deal—was almost a daily companion. It was a daring experiment—this unknown gentleman, with no aid but his own high spirit, nothing in his carpetbag but one book of gospel, coming at 42 to make his way into the heart of mighty Babylon. The more I studied George under heavy conditions the more I admired him. His ability and his courage, his honesty, independence and intellectual power, were those of a leader of men.

Walks on the Battery, whither we went under the flush of strenuous midnight work, the great city at peace and so companionous this side of the stars; strolls in the park, in Westchester and the suburbs in Brooklyn—the brave, intrepid soul wrapped up in his book and smiling upon fate.

The book, whenever he could make it possible, was the theme, for while Henry George was an attractive and brilliant talker his thoughts were ever upon the book. I had read it in California in proof and once more when the sheets were bound in New York. Many were our talks over it and its moral philosophy. I tried his patience by my failure to comprehend or accept his sublime theory by which poverty was to be stamped out by taxing the land. It was his way to ask advice as to the book, to listen and discuss and draw you into argument, as though seeking light and counsel. You found in these discussions that you were as far away as before.

George was resolute in his creed. He gave it to you as the truth to be accepted, in a sense of worship, a dogma of political infallibility.

"Does this not mean war? Can you, unless when dealing with craven conditions among men, hope to take land from its owners without war?" "I do not see," said George, "that a musket need be fired. But if necessary war be it then. There was never a holier cause. No, never a holier cause."

Here was the gentlest and kindest of men, who would shrink from a gun fired in anger, ready for universal war rather than that his gospel should not be accepted. It was the courage which has been written makes one a majority, the spirit which made him within five years one of the leading spirits of the age.

George patiently walked his anxious way in New York. Little gleams of light came now and then in the way of improved personal fortunes. Work came slowly, not in abundance. Able editors, up to date molders of public opinion, liked George, but had the press man's way—they were coy as to his ideas and especially that Koran which was to bless the world.

As to the book itself—the new Koran—it was found the world was not ready for the doctrine. We had pathetic talks over the forlorn gospel and friends were apt to chaff him about it. I was bidden to England in the early part of 1881 and proposed to George that I should take a dozen copies and see how the gospel would be regarded in the mother land.

There was in London on the Haymarket a smoky little bookstore, where the high people made literary rendezvous to gossip over books and buy if they chose. I had known the earnest and kindly proprietor in other London days, and I took the modest package of George's books and asked my friend for shelf room and his good offices toward their sale.

As occasion served I looked in upon the venture only to see the lonely volumes on the shelves. Many customers had looked, Lord Beaconsfield among others, but no one bought. Finally I learned from the bookseller that he had tasted the book and found it to teem with madness, socialism, land robbery. He seemed relieved when I took the volumes home.

Well, if the books could not be sold they could at least be sowed, taking their chances to come back as wheat or tares. A gifted friend gave me a list of persons eminent in political economy, Huxley, Tyndall, Herbert Spencer and the Duke of Argyll among the number, but the sowing brought no seed, except in the case of the Duke of Argyll. His grace was a fluent writer upon many themes, prone to controversy and stout in battle. He replied to the "Progress and Poverty" gospel in a severe criticism, which appeared in The Nineteenth Century, entitled, if I remember, "The Prophet of San Francisco." George's controversy with the duke found his opportunity, the result of which was that George won his place in English literature and became a fixed star in the firmament of political economy.

Life he recently said had been severe perhaps, but he had never been in a trouble that did not prove to be a chastisement and do him good.

He hoped to spend his days in literature. There was no hint that he would be renominated for mayor or any public station. I never saw him more content. He rejoiced in the birth of a grandchild. It was the child of a dearly loved daughter, a lady of grace and culture. A few days were to pass when I heard of this daughter's death, the baby fingers no more to press the mother's bosom. The blow went to his heart. The radiant, beautiful vision, home, children, grandchildren and the peace of old age, broken, vanished. When Henry George entered this recent canvass, he was as one with a dagger through his heart. Because of this and the superhuman efforts of a merciless campaign my friend lies dead within the gates of Babylon. Not in our day has America had a finer manhood.

FOR THE KLONDIKE.

THE NOVEL CONTRIVANCES OF TWO CANADIAN INVENTORS.

A Balloon For the Journey and a Patent Digger For Working Frozen Ground. The First Is Like an Airship and Cigar Shaped.

The public will soon see a conveyance that the inventor expects will revolutionize the traffic over the snow covered paths to the Yukon goldfields. It is the Klondike Balloon, the invention and manufacture of Joseph de l'Etoile, who has been successful in many scientific inventions.

Mr. de l'Etoile is in the employ of the interior department in Ottawa, Canada. From what can be learned about this latest invention it is an airship, rather small and cigar shaped. On the bow is placed a two bladed propeller attached to a shaft which extends to the rear. On the stern is a peculiar steering apparatus. Directly underneath the balloon is a car, in which is placed a small engine of special design, which will furnish the motive power and generate the hot air with which the balloon is to be filled. The car is covered in on all sides and will hold about eight passengers, with provisions and all necessary apparatus to complete the trip. From the car the course and speed of the machine will be directed, as the steering gear will lead from the rudder to it and a chain or belt will communicate with the propeller shaft. On top of the balloon is a trap by which the supply of hot air may be controlled and the vehicle brought to the ground or raised with ease. Aluminium enters largely into the construction of the balloon and all its parts.

It is not many weeks since the project was conceived, but during that time everything necessary has been accomplished and the machine completed and made ready for its trial. Mr. de l'Etoile has been studying this invention for years. A company of Ottawa capitalists took hold of the project as a likely means of overcoming the difficulties and hardships of the journey to the Klondike and invested a sufficient amount of money to make the building of the balloon a success. No concise information will be given before the trial trip, which is to be made within the next few days. The promoters of the enterprise have confidence in the scheme and expect that the Canadian government will utilize their machines for the transfer of mails between Edmonton and the goldfields, the proposed passenger route of the airship.

E. B. Haycock, a mining engineer of Ottawa, has secured a patent on a contrivance which is expected to obviate the difficulties of mining in the Klondike. At present mining is carried on there only with great difficulty in the frozen ground. The ground has to be thawed out with wood fires, and when the pay dirt under the fires is thawed the ashes are scraped off and the soft gravel is removed. This operation has to be repeated, and it generally takes four men 16 days to make a hole 24 feet deep. Washing out the gold from the gravel can be carried on only for two or three months in the year, owing to the scarcity of water, and during the remaining months the miner works at getting out his pay dirt.

Mr. Haycock's invention is designed to overcome all these difficulties and render mining and washing out operations possible the whole year round. It consists of a thawer and excavator. The thawer is a contrivance of the size of the hole it is desired to make. It is heated to a high temperature with hot air and driven into the ground as fast as the soil beneath it is softened. The heat is increased by the action of another apparatus, whose working Mr. Haycock will not disclose.

had what would amount to about a half year's Latin. She was unusually advanced in German, and it was thought that a good year's work would fit her for both the elementary and the advanced examinations. These expectations were more than fulfilled.

One of the first questions that arose was, Who shall conduct the examination? At Harvard the candidates are numbered and are known to those who conduct the examinations by numbers only. It was impossible to conceal the fact that Helen's papers were written by her, because she was obliged to use a typewriter and the others could use pen or pencil. Some one had to serve as eyes for Helen and testify that she was the person who actually produced the written paper. Miss Sullivan was unwilling to act in that capacity, and Mr. Gilman, who, as a member of the corporation of Radcliffe college for many years, was familiar with the Harvard examinations, was chosen. He proceeded, therefore, to learn the manual alphabet and acquired facility in it by giving Helen a portion of her work in English and reading to her examination papers in French, German, etc. About Christmas time he began to read Shakespeare and other authors to Helen, she constantly complimenting him upon his good progress.

All difficulties vanished as the work progressed. The teacher of German became interested and learned to read Helen with her hand. The avidity with which Helen read whatever was placed within her range kept her always ahead of the respective lessons. Helen never studied as if it were a task. With her a new textbook was a fresh and delightful field for investigation.

The Harvard examinations were held from June 29 to July 3. Helen's first examination was the most difficult, advanced German. She and Mr. Gilman took their places in a room where they could be uninterrupted. The papers were given out at Harvard college at 9 o'clock and were brought to Mr. Gilman under seal. Helen sat at her typewriter and Mr. Gilman took a position at her side so that his right hand could grasp hers. In his own words:

BLIND GIRL WONDER.

HELEN KELLER'S FIRST YEAR OF COLLEGE PREPARATORY WORK.

She Surprised Her Teachers—The Methods of Instruction Used—Evidences of Great Intellectual Power—Harvard Examinations at Which She Won Honors.

An account of the first year's college preparatory work done by Miss Helen Adams Keller, as "Little Helen Keller," the blind and deaf girl, is now called, was recently given out by Arthur Gilman, M. A., director of the Cambridge School For Girls, where Helen has lived for the past year.

Helen entered in September, 1896, accompanied by her teacher, Miss Anne Sullivan, the plan being to have them both in every class, Miss Sullivan being the interpreter of the instruction given by the teachers. For the first time in her life Helen lived in the constant society of seeing and hearing persons and was taught with normal pupils by instructors inexperienced in teaching the deaf or the blind. Her companionship at all times was supplied by normal persons. Mr. Gilman himself had had no experience with any but seeing and hearing pupils, and at first could converse with Helen only by allowing her to talk with her mouth and take his words from his lips with her fingers.

Though Helen had not been instructed in a course preparatory to college, she had been taught much English and needed little instruction in that direction beyond the critical study of books especially assigned by the colleges for that purpose for 1897. She had also made good progress in French and had had what would amount to about a half year's Latin. She was unusually advanced in German, and it was thought that a good year's work would fit her for both the elementary and the advanced examinations. These expectations were more than fulfilled.

One of the first questions that arose was, Who shall conduct the examination? At Harvard the candidates are numbered and are known to those who conduct the examinations by numbers only. She and Mr. Gilman took their places in a room where they could be uninterrupted. The papers were given out at Harvard college at 9 o'clock and were brought to Mr. Gilman under seal. Helen sat at her typewriter and Mr. Gilman took a position at her side so that his right hand could grasp hers. In his own words:

"We had often done the same thing before, but no previous effort had been quite like this one, and we were both conscious of it. On other occasions we tried to see if we could cope with the paper; now we were actually to write something to be submitted to Harvard examiners as a final test. It was plain to me that Helen felt this. I read the entire paper through at first, then sentence by sentence. Helen repeated the words with her voice as my hands made the signs.

"The paper was not an easy one. It was evident that Helen felt that. Her brow was knit, her fingers seemed to want to clutch an idea; perspiration came, but with regularity the typewriter spelled out the English of the German text. Helen forged ahead, and I anxiously kept her supplied with new sentences to translate. By 10:41 she had put all of the German from the German books that she had read into English. Then she took up the English to be translated into German. At 11:05 this, too, had been done. Next there was a passage from a book that Helen had never seen. This was completed at 11:44. I then read to Helen what she had written, and she dictated such changes as she thought necessary. These I interlined. It then went to the examiners with a certificate that it was the sole and unaided work of candidate No. 233.

"At 9 on Thursday the examination in Latin began. I read the paper as I had that in German. It was not easy, but it was plain that it did not present the difficulties that the German paper had and Helen was very cool. She was confident. The work went steadily forward and was duly completed and sent to the college as before. On July 2, a little before noon, we began the one hour paper on the history of Greece and Rome, and it was followed after a slight intermission by the two hour paper in English. These were uneventful. They were play for Helen, though naturally there were matters in the history paper that she had never heard of. We had spent weeks in the critical study of Burke's speech, but not a question was asked on it. We had thought that De Foe's 'Journal of the Plague' was too horrible to trouble Helen with, and but a few pages had been read to her. She found some questions on it, however, and was able to write satisfactorily on the subject.

"On Saturday there was one hour for elementary French and one for elementary German. Both of these were easy. While we were going through this there was a ring at the door and Professor Schilling was announced. He had come to let me know that Helen had been successful in her advanced German, the paper being pronounced excellent."

Helen was successful in every subject and took honors in English and German. No candidate in Harvard or Radcliffe college was graded higher than Helen in English. Mr. Gilman concludes his report with the statement: "No man or woman has ever in my experience got ready for these examinations in so brief a time. How has it been accomplished? By a union of patience, determination and affection with the foundation of an uncommon brain."

Life he recently said had been severe perhaps, but he had never been in a trouble that did not prove to be a chastisement and do him good.

He hoped to spend his days in literature. There was no hint that he would be renominated for mayor or any public station. I never saw him more content. He rejoiced in the birth of a grandchild. It was the child of a dearly loved daughter, a lady of grace and culture. A few days were to pass when I heard of this daughter's death, the baby fingers no more to press the mother's bosom. The blow went to his heart. The rapid, beautiful vision, home, children, grandchildren and the peace of old age, broken, vanished. When Henry George entered this recent canvass, he was as one with a dagger through his heart. Because of this and the superhuman efforts of a merciless campaign my friend lies dead within the gates of Babylon. Not in our day has America had a finer manhood.

FOR THE KLONDIKE.

THE NOVEL CONTRIVANCES OF TWO CANADIAN INVENTORS.

A Balloon For the Journey and a Patent Digger For Working Frozen Ground. The First Is Like an Airship and Cigar Shaped.

The public will soon see a conveyance that the inventor expects will revolutionize the traffic over the snow covered paths to the Yukon goldfields. It is the Klondike balloon, the invention and manufacture of Joseph de l'Etoile, who has been successful in many scientific inventions.

Mr. de l'Etoile is in the employ of the interior department in Ottawa, Canada. From what can be learned about this latest invention it is an airship, rather small and cigar shaped. On the bow is placed a two bladed propeller attached to a shaft which extends to the rear. On the stern is a peculiar steering apparatus. Directly underneath the balloon is a car, in which is placed a small engine of special design, which will furnish the motive power and generate the hot air with which the balloon is to be filled. The car is covered in on all sides and will hold about eight passengers, with provisions and all necessary apparatus to complete the trip. From the car the course and speed of the machine will be directed, as the steering gear will lead from the rudder to it and a chain or belt will communicate with the propeller shaft. On top of the balloon is a trap by which the supply of hot air may be controlled and the vehicle brought to the ground or raised with ease. Aluminium enters largely into the construction of the balloon and all its parts.

It is not many weeks since the project was conceived, but during that time everything necessary has been accomplished and the machine completed and made ready for its trial. Mr. de l'Etoile has been studying this invention for years. A company of Ottawa capitalists took hold of the project as a likely means of overcoming the difficulties and hardships of the journey to the Klondike and invested a sufficient amount of money to make the building of the balloon a success. No concise information will be given before the trial trip, which is to be made within the next few days. The promoters of the enterprise have confidence in the scheme and expect that the Canadian government will utilize their machines for the transfer of mails between Edmonton and the goldfields, the proposed passenger route of the airship.

E. B. Haycock, a mining engineer of Ottawa, has secured a patent on a contrivance which is expected to obviate the difficulties of mining in the Klondike. At present mining is carried on there only with great difficulty in the frozen ground. The ground has to be thawed out with wood fires, and when the pay dirt under the fires is thawed the ashes are scraped off and the soft gravel is removed. This operation has to be repeated, and it generally takes four men 16 days to make a hole 24 feet deep. Washing out the gold from the gravel can be carried on only for two or three months in the year, owing to the scarcity of water, and during the remaining months the miner works at getting out his pay dirt.

Mr. Haycock's invention is designed to overcome all these difficulties and render mining and washing out operations possible the whole year round. It consists of a thawer and excavator. The thawer is a contrivance of the size of the hole it is desired to make. It is heated to a high temperature with hot air and driven into the ground as fast as the soil beneath it is softened. The heat is increased by the action of another apparatus, whose working Mr. Haycock will not disclose.

After the gravel beneath the thawer has been softened it is drawn out by the excavator, which raises it to a dumping platform, where it is put through the sluice boxes. These boxes have been so contrived that the water passing through them can be used over and over again, with very little waste. By means of this machine, Mr. Haycock believes, eight men can sink a shaft 24 feet deep in one day. The cost in operating also will be greatly in favor of the machine, the estimated expense of making a hole 24 feet deep by present method being $960 and by his machine $160.—New York Sun.

She Saw Her.

Mr. Mann—Did you see that woman just as we crossed over?

Mrs. Mann—You mean the woman in the camel's hair gown and beaver jacket—the one who had on bronze shoes, a hat trimmed with fuchsias and heliotrope, with pink ribbons and a chiffon veil? No, I didn't notice her in particular. What were you going to say about her?—Boston Transcript.

MEET ONCE A MONTH

President Peach's Suggestion to Council.

THE WORK HAS ALL BEEN DONE

Improvements Are Over For the Year and There Will Be Nothing to Serve as an Excuse For Any But One Session Every Four Weeks—The Record.

"I don't believe in too much legislation. It is not always the best thing for a community, particularly a community which can boast of as big a book of codified ordinances as can East Liverpool. Therefore I am in favor of council meeting but once a month during the winter season."

The speaker was President George Peach. He looked over the reporter's shoulder and out into the wet waste of bricks which made up the deserted Diamond, yesterday afternoon, and there was a light in his countenance which clearly showed that he was thinking of something of unusual importance.

"It's this way," he continued, as he pulled himself together and began to speak in those vigorous tones his friends have learned to know as an indication of firmness, "we have nothing to do. The improvements for the year are over. We opened bids the other day for some important work that is to be done on Lisbon road, but that was only a formality. The matter will rest as quietly as it can until next spring. Then we will again take it up and let the contract. It would be worse than folly to attempt work of that kind in this weather, and I guess we'll have a good bit of it before the end of March."

"One meeting a month will answer every purpose. We could meet to pass the payroll and consider such other matters as demanded immediate attention, but there will not likely be many of them. The committees can do a great deal of work when they get down to business, and that is where much of it should be done. Then there is danger in too many meetings, for we might do some things which would not be for the best interests of the city, and that is just what we don't want to do. So I think, to keep out of temptation, we should not meet too often."

"We can look over the work now and see just what we have accomplished, and I must say I look at it with some degree of pride. We settled that ugly dispute in relation to Cook street, and succeeded in getting the street paved. Then there is College street and Lincoln avenue, to say nothing of the sidewalks on Jefferson street and that troublesome job of having the sidewalks on Third street reduced to grade. Now, that I think of it, I really believe we have paid a good deal of attention to the streets, and no one will stop to deny that it is a very good thing for the city that we did. We employed a man to build up the hollows and reduce the hills in the paved streets, and they have been kept cleaner than ever before. The ordinance against littering them with waste paper has been enforced, and the nuisance of boxes and other obstructions has almost, if not entirely, disappeared."

"The location of the river road and the plan to bridge Jethro hollow, the last without costing the city money, are two of the most important bits of work council has accomplished. They may not appear great just now, but wait a few years and the general public will appreciate them. The sidewalks for Jethro and Eighth streets can almost be included in the same list so far as importance goes. That matter has caused much discussion in this town of ours, and I am glad it is settled. The East End road is another thing of value."

"Remodeling the city building, providing for the transformation of the public square from a dumping ground to a public park were other good moves, while the removal of bodies from the old cemetery, and the ending of those disgraceful scenes we heard so much about last spring were important matters. They at least serve to show that council realizes the importance of those things which some people have observed as insignificant."

"The Tanyard run matter has finally been twisted and turned until it is in shape for something to be done next spring. Everybody will agree with me that that is important, and there are the damage suits. During the present council's life there have been no damage suits, and I earnestly hope there will be none, nor need there be if council is careful."

"It has been our aim to treat all men with justice and fairness in order that there could be no complaint, and we have done our level best. So you see I have some room, when I look over the work of the season, to think that these things, when compared with what some other councils have done, warrant only one meeting a month during the winter."

COAL OIL JOHNNY" TODAY.

Be Wheels a Truck on a Railway Platform in Ashland.

E. H. Baldwin, a prominent citizen of Ashland, Neb., spoke recently of Coal Oil Johnny.

"Coal Oil Johnny was a famous character back in the sixties, and his name appears in the encyclopedias as 'an American spendthrift' and will, I suppose, so appear for all time," said Mr. Baldwin. "His history is so well known that it is unnecessary to tell how he made his money in the oilfields of Pennsylvania, how he went down to Philadelphia and New York and stopped at the best hotels. Everybody knows that he paid $5 for a shoe shine, bought a carriage and gave it to the driver who had hauled him a block, spent $10,000 for wine in a week at a hotel in Philadelphia and in other ways spent money so that the world was talking about him."

"He married somewhere, and he is now wheeling a truck for the Burlington railroad at Ashland. His son is the agent of the company Johnny is today an old and crabbed man. He never speaks to any one, and it is seldom that he answers a question put to him and never if it has any reference to his past life. His son, too, is as reticent concerning his father as the father himself."

"He goes about his humdrum existence in a mechanical sort of a way, wheeling the trunks of the traveling men and the butter and eggs of the farmer just as an old horse, a former racer, goes about his work of drawing a dray, and perhaps the thoughts of the two are much the same. I have no doubt but what Johnny bitterly regrets the money he spent in such a reckless fashion that he became one of the historical characters of the United States."

"He is an old man comparatively. I should judge that he was above 60 or at least close to that age. I have known him for the 10 or 12 years he has lived in Ashland, and I have never yet seen him say 20 consecutive words to any one."

"It will never do for a stranger to speak to him. He will turn his back and walk away. He suspects that every stranger who speaks to him is some newspaper man who has ferreted out his existence there and wants a talk out of him. That is, I am told, the reason why so many travelers who do not know who he is speak about him as being the surliest man on the face of the globe."

"His son is married and is well known in Ashland. He is an agreeable man and a general favorite, but he is as dumb as the regulation oyster when the conversation is turned upon his father. Of his parent's past he will say absolutely nothing, probably because his father has so posted him."—St. Louis Republic.

ANOTHER GOOD SAMARITAN

Mrs. Raws Will Establish a Colony of Citizens in New Jersey.

Few women have done as much for the poor of her city as has Mrs. William Raws of Philadelphia. There is hardly a "traveler" of this or any other city who does not know the genial, kindly woman who organized the "Who soever Gospel mission," and who extends the hand of greeting to every man, woman or boy in trouble or in need.

Mrs. Raws purchased a tract of land within the last few weeks at Whiting, N. J., where men and women can be taken away from their old haunts into the pure country air, which refreshes and invigorates them, and where they grow strong physically and morally again. The farm consists of 421 acres of land—50 acres cleared and 50 acres of cranberry bogs and 250 acres of fine, large timber. There are four houses, barns, stables and chicken houses, and a sawmill in full working order, run by water power from a lake of natural springs on the property. Mrs. Raws intends to live there, and several families who have been helped back to respectability by her will form the first settlers of the colony. The property will be held in trust by a board of trustees, including the Rev. Dr. Chapman of New York, the Rev. Dr. H. M. Wharton of Baltimore and Mrs. D. Wilson Moore of Clayton, N. J. The settlers intend to raise large quantities of chickens and ducks, grow fruits and truck for market, manufacture brushes and kindling wood and follow such other industries as may be found practicable.

Whiting is the junction where the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Pennsylvania and the Tuckerton railroads meet. It is near Lakewood and Barnegat pier, and the residents of both places are anxious to aid in the disposal of the farm products. The railroad companies are favoring in every way possible the establishing of the colony, and Mrs. Raws has no doubts of its final success. Coupled with the Philadelphia work, she believes that there will be possibilities of the establishing of one of the largest and most successful enterprises in the state. Rescue work will be especially aimed for.—New York Tribune.

MONKEY EGG THIEF.

When the Hens Commenced to Cackle, It Robbed the Nest.

John Wilson, a poultry fancier of Port Jervis, N. Y., has a coop of choice fowls. A few days ago a friend presented him with a pet monkey, which was allowed to run loose about his grounds, which were inclosed by a high woven wire fence.

Since the arrival of the monkey Mr. Wilson noticed that his egg supply had almost ceased. The other day he discovered the monkey beside the chicken coop door. At the cackling of a hen the monkey lifted the latch, sprang through the door, brushed the hen aside and, seizing the freshly laid egg, tapped the shell and devoured the contents. Mr. Wilson now keeps the monkey chained.—New York Herald.

WILL SURELY BE BUILT

Railroad Men Have Not Abandoned

THE LIVERPOOL AND LISBON

Eastern Capital Will Be Interested In the Line, and When Spring Comes Active Operations Will Be Commenced—Good Cause For Delay.

There are a few people in this city and a number of people in Cleveland who firmly believe that the East Liverpool, Fredericktown and Lisbon railroad is something more than it seems, and within a year cars will be moving along the towpath of the old Beaver canal, and they will not be electric cars either.

That is the substance of a story which has been moving around this part of the world for several days. While neither Mr. Head nor Mr. Monaghan, the gentlemen who engineered the scheme last summer, have been in the city, it is known that parties interested in the line have been here and have been quietly doing some very good work. Details are not obtainable, but the one great statement that the road will be built comes from an authoritative source.

The original intention was to have an electric road, but that, it is believed, has been abandoned. At least it is understood that the gentlemen are interesting eastern capital in the construction of a steam road which may not end in East Liverpool. Who the eastern men are or how far they will go into the project is not known, but the News Review had it positively from a gentleman who does not waste words when he has an important communication to make, that the road would be built.

"The plan is one of the best I ever heard of," he said, "and the gentlemen who pushed it first can get all the money they want for a project of that kind. It is a money maker on the very face of it."

WE ARE READY TO PLAY.

Football Boys Are Not Afraid of Salem.

The football players of the city, particularly those who make up the Twin Cities, are indignant over a statement which appeared last night in the Salem News. It is as follows:

"The East Liverpool football team has canceled its date with the Young Men's Christian association team of this city. They were to play a game next Saturday."

That's the Salem side. Now comes Liverpool's story.

Manager John Rose arranged the date some time ago, and on Wednesday Salem canceled the game. Manager Rose protested, and the party on the Salem end of the line promised to do his best to find a sufficient number of players who would come. Yesterday at noon Salem told Manager Rose by telephone that it would be impossible for the club to be here. Then the manager wanted a later date, but the excuse was made that Salem players could not go so far away from home. That seemed to settle it, and Mr. Rose gave up the battle.

In view of the fact that Salem's tactics last year were on the same line, the boys believe their friends in the quiet city are afraid to come to Liverpool for a game.

THOSE VALUABLE LOTS

Of the East End Land Improvement company can be secured at Attorney McGarry's office, Fifth street, at auction prices. See the plat on exhibition. Every lot marked off with blue pencil is a bonafide sale. The first payment is but light, with a payment each month thereafter, such a payment as any mechanic can reach easily. These lots will be very valuable in a short time. Purchase while you can.

Practice Some.

The Twin Cities will next Tuesday evening hold their first practice in a week. The eleven will play Vanport next Saturday, and on Thanksgiving day they will meet Bethany. The local team will strengthen for this game as they are very anxious to defeat Bethany.

At the Grand.

"The Bicycle Race" at the Grand last evening was seen by a large crowd, and the play was well presented by the June Agnott company. "Myrtle Fern" will occupy the boards this evening. *

No Game Tomorrow.

The Rovers will not play football tomorrow in New Castle because it is impossible for a number of their players to get away.

A Sensation Avoided

Had any other dealer in our midst secured half the genuine attractions which "THE LEADER" has secured for its friends there would be more boasting, more bold type, than you've seen for many a day; but "The Leader" is only fulfilling its mission, to furnish better goods for the same money; or the same goods for less money, than any other house in East Liverpool and environs; and so we ask you to take this modest announcement of facts as only the forerunner of events to follow.

This is a ladies store, with chiefly outer garments and millinery, a good stock of corsets, furnishings and a small line of domestic goods. It's a growing house, and the small lines will grow with it.

THE CASE WENT OVER

Until Court Convenes Again Next Spring.

JOHN SHRADER WAS TOO ILL

To Be Present In Court, So His Physician said, and Judge Hervey Could Do Nothing but Postpone the Hearing--Other side Was Ready.

The trial of the case of the Beaver Falls Lumber company against John Shrader did not long occupy the attention of the county court at New Cumberland this morning for it was postponed until next spring.

Mr. Pierson and other representatives were present with their attorneys and were anxious to have the case go on, but Mr. Shrader's attorney asked for postponement. He presented a statement from Doctor Russell which said that Mr. Shrader was so ill that it would be dangerous for him to leave his home. He is suffering from peritonitis. Judge Hervey therefore postponed the case to the next term of court, some date in March. Court then adjourned.

ASKED ALIMONY.

Mrs. Armstrong Also Got an Injunction.

LISBON, Nov. 12.—[Special].—Hattie B. Armstrong applied to the court for alimony, and an injunction was issued against Frank C. Armstrong restraining him from disposing of property. She claims her husband deserted her without cause.

A. McGaffick's $10,000 damage case, recently instituted against the Ohio and Pennsylvania Coal company, of Salineville, has been dismissed. It was based on a violation of contract.

Ferdinand Oschman appealed from the decision of Squire Manley, who last month entered judgment against him in favor of G. W. Meredith. The action was caused by a cash register.

E. W. Smith, of Palestine, was today made deputy sheriff.

CHANGED HER PLEA.

Mrs. John Kountz Was Charged With Being Disorderly.

Only one arrest was made last night. Fred Wolf was caught on a charge of being drunk, preferred by Chief Johnson. At a late hour this afternoon he had not been arraigned.

Mrs. John Kountz, who was arrested by Chief Johnson yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct, was before the mayor this afternoon. She was closely questioned, and said she would stand trial. Later she changed her plea, and the mayor asked her for $9.60 which was paid. The arrest of Mrs. Kountz was the result of some trouble in the Midway Wednesday night.

MUST PAY THEIR BILLS.

The Association Was Completed Last Night.

The wholesale and retail grocers, butchers and produce dealers completed their organization last night.

The officers are: President, J. H. Dawson; vice president, A. E. McLean; secretaries, Frank Norris and F. M. Foutts; treasurer, Mr. Allison.

The association is formed for the purpose of protection. If a customer quits dealing at one place without paying his bill he can get nothing at any other store except for cash until the account is settled. The dealers say they have heard excuses of buying shoes, paying doctor bills, coal, rent and building and loan payments until they are tired.

MR. SWIFT TO PREACH

At the Union Services Next Thanksgiving Day

IN THE FIRST U. P. CHURCH

The Collection Will Be Given to the Young Woman's Home—Ministers So Decided at a Meeting Held This Morning at the Association.

An important meeting of ministers was held this morning in the parlors of the Young Men's Christian association.

The meeting was called for the purpose of deciding where the Thanksgiving services were to be held and who would deliver the sermon. The First United Presbyterian church was the place chosen, and the choice of orator fell upon Rev. Charles F. Swift, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church. Reverend Swift only came to the city a few months ago, and his selection was a well deserved complement.

The matter of the collection was discussed, and it was decided that the money should be given the young women's home.

It was stated yesterday that other business would be transacted, but nothing beyond what is given above was done.

Dogs For the Klondike.

Exactly 220 dogs, the property of W. H. Lewis, a Seattle lawyer, are on their way to the Pacific coast from Chicago and will be sold to Klondike miners. Lawyer Lewis hopes to get from $25 to $50 apiece for the canines, and should his fond hopes be realized he will take two more carloads. Dogs are said to be precious animals in Seattle, as every miner who intends to enter the newly found gold regions wants a quartet of curs to haul his sled.

A Debt Collecting Buggy.

A man in Paris finds a profitable business in collecting bad debts by stopping at the debtor's with a wagon, around the top of which are these words: "This buggy only stops in front of the houses of people who will not pay their debts." Everybody, and particularly business people, dread this man's buggy so much that they pay promptly.

Entertaining Canadian Delegates.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—President McKinley gave a dinner at the executive mansion last night to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian premier, and Lady Laurier, Sir Louis D'Arcy, minister of marine of Canada, and Lady Davies and the officials who are taking part in the Bering sea negotiations. Tonight Secretary Sherman will entertain them at dinner and on Saturday night they will be the guests of General Foster.

Jackson Decision Referred.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The case of Butler, Perry and Ruckman, government gaugers and storekeepers in a distillery in the West Virginia collection district which was tried by Judge Jackson of the United States circuit court and a decision reached by which Cotter or White is restrained from either removing or transferring them to other and subordinate positions as was contemplated, has been referred to the solicitor of the treasury.

THE CASE WENT OVER

Until Court Convenes Again
Next Spring.

JOHN SHRADER WAS TOO ILL

To Be Present In Court, So His Physician said, and Judge Hervey Could Do Nothing but Postpone the Hearing--Other side Was Ready.

The trial of the case of the Beaver Falls Lumber company against John Shrader did not long occupy the attention of the county court at New Cumberland
this morning for it was postponed until next spring.

Mr. Pierson and other representatives were present with their attorneys and were anxious to have the case go on, but Mr. Shrader's attorney asked for postponement. He presented a statement from Doctor Russell which said that Mr. Shrader was so ill that it would be dangerous for him to leave his home. He is suffering from peritonitis.
Judge Hervey therefore postponed the case to the next term of court, some date in March. Court then adjourned.

ASKED ALIMONY.

Mrs. Armstrong Also Got an Injunction.

LISBON, Nov. 12.—[Special].—Hattie B. Armstrong applied to the court for alimony, and an injunction was issued against Frank C. Armstrong restraining him from disposing of property. She claims her husband deserted her without cause.

A McGaffick's $10,000 damage case, recently instituted against the Ohio and Pennsylvania Coal company, of Salineville, has been dismissed. It was based on a violation of contract.

Ferdinand Oschman appealed from the decision of Squire Manley, who last month entered judgment against him in favor of G. W. Meredith. The action was caused by a cash register.

E. W. Smith, of Palestine, was today made deputy sheriff.

CHANGED HER PLEA.

Mrs. John Kountz Was Charged With Being Disorderly.

Only one arrest was made last night.
Fred Wolf was caught on a charge of being drunk, preferred by Chief Johnson.
At a late hour this afternoon he had not been arraigned.

Mrs. John Kountz, who was arrested by Chief Johnson yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct, was before the mayor this afternoon. She was closely questioned, and said she would stand trial. Later she changed her plea, and the mayor asked her for $9.60 which was paid. The arrest of Mrs. Kountz was the result of some trouble in the Midway
Wednesday night.

MUST PAY THEIR BILLS.

The Association Was Completed Last Night.

The wholesale and retail grocers,
butchers and produce dealers completed their organization last night.

The officers are: President, J. H.
Dawson; vice president, A. E. McLean;
secretaries, Frank Norris and F. M.
Foutts; treasurer, Mr. Allison.

The association is formed for the purpose of protection. If a customer quits dealing at one place without paying his bill he can get nothing at any other store except for cash until the account is settled. The dealers say they have heard excuses of buying shoes, paying doctor bills, coal, rent and building and loan payments until they are tired.

WON THE CASE.

The News Review Gained a Victory In Court.

The trial of the case of the Brown
Folding company against the News Review company occupied the greater part of today at Squire Manley's court.

The testimony was all in favor of the News Review, and the jury only occupied a little time in preparing a verdict for the defense.

Thrown Out of Court.

LISBON, Nov. 11.—[Special].—The case of Wing & Evans, of New York, against the Specialty Glass Co., of Liverpool, was called yesterday, but taken from the jury on motion of the defendant.

Wing & Evans wanted $2,000, claiming it for soda ash sold to them sometime ago. The plaintiffs' case failed to materialize so as to convince the jury of their claim, and when Judge Wells moved to dismiss it was sustained.

MR. SWIFT TO PREACH

At the Union Services Next
Thanksgiving Day

IN THE FIRST U. P. CHURCH

The Collection Will Be Given to the Young Woman's Home—Ministers So Decided at a Meeting Held This Morning at the Association.

An important meeting of ministers was held this morning in the parlors of the Young Men's Christian association.

The meeting was called for the purpose of deciding where the Thanksgiving services were to be held and who would deliver the sermon. The First United Presbyterian church was the place chosen, and the choice of orator fell upon Rev. Charles F. Swift, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church.
Reverend Swift only came to the city a few months ago, and his selection was a well deserved complement.

The matter of the collection was discussed, and it was decided that the money
should be given the young women's home.

It was stated yesterday that other business would be transacted, but nothing beyond what is given above was done.

Dogs For the Klondike.

Exactly 220 dogs, the property of W.
H. Lewis, a Seattle lawyer, are on their way to the Pacific coast from Chicago and will be sold to Klondike miners.
Lawyer Lewis hopes to get from $25 to $50 apiece for the canines, and should his fond hopes be realized he will take two more carloads. Dogs are said to be precious animals in Seattle, as every miner who intends to enter the newly found gold regions wants a quartet of curs to haul his sled.

A Debt Collecting Buggy.

A man in Paris finds a profitable business in collecting bad debts by stopping at the debtor's with a wagon,
around the top of which are these words:
"This buggy only stops in front of the houses of people who will not pay their debts." Everybody, and particularly business people, dread this man's buggy so much that they pay promptly.

Entertaining Canadian Delegates.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—President McKinley gave a dinner at the executive mansion last night to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian premier, and Lady Laurier, Sir Louis D'Arcy, minister of marine of Canada, and Lady Davies and the officials who are taking part in the Bering sea negotiations.
Tonight Secretary Sherman will entertain them at dinner and on Saturday night they will be the guests of General Foster.

THE PACKETS ARE OUT

Business on the River Has Resumed.

A LITTLE COAL IS PASSING

But Big Shipments Are Not the Order. Pittsburg and Cincinnati Boats Have Been Ordered on Their Regular Trips. Ware at the Wharf.

The long siege of stagnation in river trade is now at an end, and by tomorrow night every available craft, whether packet or tow, will be out. The river reached a navigable stage yesterday, and today there were 5.6 feet of water in the channel at this port.

The Relief was the first boat to pass through the Davis Island dam for almost three months, and the Clifton soon followed. The Princess brought a fleet of coal from Shippingport to this place, and then went to Pittsburg. The Clifton arrived at 8:30 this morning with several empty flats and two of coal, and after disposing of them here went to Cincinnati, where it will get a tow of empties for Pittsburg. Five minutes later the Rescue arrived with two flats of coal and returned to Pittsburg. The Delta, with four flats, came down this afternoon.

Captain James A. Henderson has ordered all the Cincinnati packets out. The Virginia will arrive in Pittsburg from Wheeling in time to leave on its regular trip tomorrow. The Keystone State left Marietta last night for Gallipolis, whence she will return to Pittsburg to start out Monday afternoon. The Queen City will leave Cincinnati tomorrow night for Pittsburg.

All the other lower river packets are expected to arrive early in the week.

A lot of ware is being taken to the wharf boat, and the first packet south will have an enormous cargo from this city.

A Good Entertainment.

The Tom Thumb wedding attracted a large crowd to Young Men's Christian association hall last evening, and they were well rewarded for braving the inclement weather.

The program was carried out by the little folks in a manner which excited hearty applause. The wedding, performed by a young gentleman in the garb of an Episcopal bishop, was a pretty ceremony. The entertainment was throughout a very pleasant evening for all who attended. It will be repeated tonight.

The Last of the Account.

LISBON, Nov. 12.—[Special]—The remainder of the campaign expense accounts were filed with Clerk McNutt today. They are as follows:

W. V. Blake, $142.45; C. E. Smith, $196.27; Republican committee Fairfield township, $28; Charles Bonsell, $9.75.

Tom Thumb wedding repeated tonight, Y. M. C. A. hall. Light refreshments. Admission 10c.

Woman Toward Woman.

The new woman might well emulate the virtues in which men excel. The kindness of intercourse found among men does not characterize the attitude of woman toward woman. A man will make himself comfortable on a long journey, and at its conclusion will have made an acquaintance and perhaps a friend of his neighbor. But for a woman to speak to a fellow traveler of her own sex without the conventional introduction is to invite a snub. Should she inform her neighbor at the dry goods counter that she has found a certain new lining for her frock most satisfactory, the information would very likely be received with a haughty stare, plainly declaring the suspicion that the informer gets a percentage on sales. There is small opportunity under such circumstances to love your neighbor as yourself.

The experiment has but to be tried to demonstrate to the graciously inclined woman that there is little room for her who would, even in a small way, wish her sister woman good luck upon her way. Steamers in passing each other display a white flutter of handkerchiefs from the human freight aboard, but the wayfaring woman is considered a fool if she inclines to that sort of graciousness on land. And yet a woman is not necessarily either disreputable or designing simply because she speaks to another woman without introduction. Graciousness, however, need never suggest familiarity. A helpful word may be spoken with dignity and yet with kindly interest, and she who resents it is to be pitied for her lack of understanding. A gracious "Thank you," even if the well meant information is not needed, proclaims the gentlewoman. —Delineator.

Theater Reform.

Now the theater hat Doesn't know where it's at. It's been shorn of its plumes, and its feathers are flat. And the matinee graces With unshadowed faces, Are smiling like dutiful dears in their places. But with perfect submission They've signed a petition For a change in another theater condition. And here's what they say To the council today, For which all the charming petitioners pray: "Away with the feet That climb over the seat, A mythical 'friend' in the lobby to meet! Away with the doves That return with the doves And the breath that all over the theater roves! The fellows who scramble and squeeze to their places And ruthlessly trample the silks and the laces— Away. They say, With those fellows today! Let 'em mash 'em as flat As the theater hat! Chain 'em down till the end of the play!" —Atlanta Constitution.

Gray horses are usually the longest lived. Creams are decidedly delicate and are seriously affected by very warm weather.

Woman Toward Woman.

The new woman might well emulate the virtues in which men excel. The kindness of intercourse found among men does not characterize the attitude of woman toward woman. A man will make himself comfortable on a long journey, and at its conclusion will have made an acquaintance and perhaps a friend of his neighbor. But for a woman to speak to a fellow traveler of her own sex without the conventional introduction is to invite a snub. Should she inform her neighbor at the dry goods counter that she has found a certain new lining for her frock most satisfactory, the information would very likely be received with a haughty stare, plainly declaring the suspicion that the informer gets a percentage on sales. There is small opportunity under such circumstances to love your neighbor as yourself.

The experiment has but to be tried to demonstrate to the graciously inclined woman that there is little room for her who would, even in a small way, wish her sister woman good luck upon her way. Steamers in passing each other display a white flutter of handkerchiefs from the human freight aboard, but the wayfaring woman is considered a fool if she inclines to that sort of graciousness on land. And yet a woman is not necessarily either disreputable or designing simply because she speaks to another woman without introduction. Graciousness, however, need never suggest familiarity. A helpful word may be spoken with dignity and yet with kindly interest, and she who resents it is to be pitied for her lack of understanding. A gracious "Thank you," even if the well meant information is not needed, proclaims the gentlewoman. —Delineator.

Theater Reform.

Now the theater hat Doesn't know where it's at. It's been shorn of its plumes, and its feathers are flat. And the matinee graces With unshadowed faces, Are smiling like dutiful dears in their places. But with perfect submission They've signed a petition For a change in another theatre condition. And here's what they say To the council today, For which all the charming petitioners pray: "Away with the feet That climb over the seat A mythical 'friend' in the lobby to meet! Away with the droves That return with the cloves And the breath that all over the theater roves! The fellows who scramble and squeeze to their places And ruthlessly trample the silks and the laces— Away. They say, With those fellows today! Let 'em mash 'em as flat As the theater hat! Chain 'em down till the end of the play!" —Atlanta Constitution.

Gray horses are usually the longest lived. Creams are decidedly delicate and are seriously affected by very warm weather.

A BARBER SHOP ROW

Ended In the Arrest of Henry Schenkle,

WHO REACHED FOR A REVOLVER

The Information Said, and Had Pointed It at a Customer--It Is Not a Serious Case, and He Is Awaiting a Hearing Without Bond.

Henry Schenkle, who works in a barber shop in Sixth street, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of pointing firearms. The charge was preferred by Jack Hague, a member of Commissioner Finley's street force.

During the afternoon Hague went to Schenkle's to be shaved. When this was done the barber asked if he would have a tonic, which would cost him five cents extra, and he replied he would. When ready to go out Hague gave the barber a dollar, and 85 cents was given him. He did not want to pay for the tonic, and an argument was the result. During the talk Schenkle appeared on the scene, and learning the trouble reached into the drawer of a case and pulled out a revolver. This enraged Hague so that he went to the mayor's office and swore out a warrant which was served by Officer Terrence. Schenkle was taken to city hall where he was later released on his own recognizance and waived a hearing.

Schenkle claims he did not point the revolver at Hague, only pulled it out thinking it might scare Hague, as he did not care for the nickle.

FINDLAY, O., Dec. 13, 1896.

MISS MARY WALDEMAIRS—Your letter of the 7th inst. inquiring as to Doctor Wood helping me. I will say, with the greatest of pleasure, that he did me more good than any doctor I have had for seven years. Without a doubt, he has the grandest medicine in the world, and if you would go to him I think he would cure you.

Yours respectfully,

MRS. W. E. FOSTER.

Doctor Wood is at the Hotel Lakel, and will remain until Saturday evening.

After Small Boys.

Last season the small boy became so much of a nuisance about the opera house entrance that the police were only able, through a number of raids, to end the nuisance.

The influence lasted through the summer season, but it seems to be wearing away. A great many people have been annoyed, and Manager Norris has determined to call in the police again.

To the Ladies.

The ladies of East Liverpool and vicinity who desire information that will add to their happiness and insure health, should not fail to call on Doctor Wood at the Lakel house, where he can be consulted until Saturday night, Nov. 13, until 9 o'clock.

Late as Usual.

The early Pittsburg train was 10 minutes late this morning, and the eastern express on the Pennsylvania railroad delayed the train due in this city at 8:46 about 20 minutes. Travel today was good.

Tom Thumb wedding repeated tonight, Y. M. C. A. hall. Light refreshments. Admission 10c.

May Go to Philadelphia.

The Pittsburg baseball team is endeavoring to trade Dicky Padden to the Philadelphia club, and it is probable the Martin's Ferry boy will next season cover second base for the Quakers.

Almost Completed.

A lot of machinery was sent to the East End pottery this morning by the Patterson company. Very little machinery is needed before the order is filled.

Don't suffer with frosted feet. Frank, Shumaker & Co. sell warm shoes at very low prices. Ladies' shoes 75c.

Entered Suit.

J. J. Parinton has entered suit against J. H. Barker for $50 claimed due on a promissory note. The case will be heard next Monday by Squire Hill.

The Kunits is the peer of any similar musical organization in the country.

WE HAVE MADE A GREAT HIT!

"Erlanger," said an eastern manufacturer about four months ago, "believe me, the era of prosperity is here, and has come to stay. There's a tendency for better clothing; shoddy will no longer meet with favor at any price. Place an order with us of any amount to justify and we'll give you the best clothing to retail at $15 you or any other storekeeper in the world has ever shown." And we agreed with him, that to devote thoughts, capital and energy to the one object must prove advantageous alike to promoter and consumer.

And this is the history of the birth of our FAMOUS intended for $15 to be sure, and the best $15 values in the world. Better than many show for $20, as good as some show at $25. One of the leading New York clothiers has created quite a stir among competitors and fashionable dressers with precisely the same line at $15, but our expenses aren't as great and our profits need not be.

$12 ATTIRE
